

international displays

Since its launch in 1989 by Brian Jones, International Displays has become recognised as one of the UK's leading manufacturers of specialist audio and visual point of sale displays.

We design and manufacture a comprehensive range of products to suit the retail and rental sector of the music, video and games market.

If you are looking to change a small section or have a complete re-fit, we offer free independent on-site consultation, design and planning including advice on layout and installation.

Our wide range of product means you can maintain the image and culture of your environment or you can change the look by using different colours, textures, finishes and styles and create a completely new ambience.

Whether you are a music, games or video retailer or public library, iD have the knowledge and skills to create the image you are looking for.

Our products are manufactured to order and we take pride in offering our own personal delivery & installation service. Our installation team have many years of shopfitting experience and expertise of installing top quality displays.

To complete your image, we also have our own iD Sign Studio offering signage and guiding in a wide range of colours as well as graphics to enable you to promote your merchandise.

Choose International Displays and you're in safe hands.....
